EDITOR SPEAKS ON WORLD PEACE

Mr. Mark Etheridge Delivers
Interesting Address Before The
A. A. U. W.

"World Peace" was the subject of a most interesting address delivered by Mr. Mark Etheridge, managing editor of the Macon Telegraph, before the American Association of University Women at their meeting Monday evening.

Mr. Etheridge began his address with an explanation of America's position in world affairs twelve years ago when the Armistice was signed. He paid tribute to Woodrow Wilson and his great leadership, telling convincingly of how the world looked toward America for guidance in re-establishing peace and stabilizing both commerce and government.

The condition at that time was compared with today. America is standing outside the League of Nations, the World Court and other organizations that have as their principal object the brotherhood of nations. He showed how the American government had caused other nations of the world to hate them with their unreasonable tariff and their isolation from world affairs. He blamed this attitude of America with the unrest and turmoil that now exists. His address showed a clear insight into world affairs and his attentive audience gave it their hearty approval.

Miss Steele, the president of the association, presented Mr. Etheridge to the audience and presided during the program. At the conclusion of the address refreshments were served.

MRS. HINES HONORED BY OGLETHORPE UNIVERSITY

Book of Georgia Verse Contains Writings of Mrs. Nelle Womack
Hines

The Oglethorpe Book of Georgia Verse, from the press this week, contains the writings of outstanding Georgia poets, and several of these poems are from the pen of Mrs. Nelle Womack Hines, Milledgeville poet and author.

Mrs. Hines has achieved success as a writer. Her collection of poems that were recently printed have received wide recognition and she has been distinctly honored by having some of her writings appear in this book of Georgia verse that is published by Oglethorpe University.

SOCIOLOGY PROFESSOR SPEAKS TO STUDENTS

Tulane Representative Outlines Briefly the Field of Social Work.

Dr. Elizabeth Wisner, Assistant Professor of Sociology at Tulane University in New Orleans, Louisiana spoke Thursday afternoon and Friday morning especially to the students in Psychology and Sociology and to those students especially interested in Social Work.

Dr. Wisner briefly outlined and explained something about the field of Social Work since its start, and listed several of the Public Welfare offices. She told of the Social conditions in the cities and touched on the work being done in the rural districts also. Her lecture was very interesting especially from a Psychological, Sociological, and Psychiatric viewpoint.

To the students Dr. Winser also gave a general idea of the work required in the field of Social Welfare Work.

CHICAGO MALE QUARTET PRESENTS PROGRAM

The Lyceum number Friday night in the auditorium was a program presented by the Chicago male quartet, which is under the management of the Bureau of Fine Arts.

The opening number, sung by the entire quartet was "Dixie", which was followed by "Sunset," "Passing By," and "Pale Moon." Solos were sung by Mr. Morris Cherest, baritone; Mr. B. C. Burton, first tenor;

Mr. L. H. Bishop, bass; and duets by Mr. Arthur Glenn, second tenor, and Mr. Cherest.

The last section of the program was presented in costume. The quartet dressed as Scotch Highlanders, sang a group of well-known Scotch melodies, concluding the performance with a medley.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS TRAINING CLASS

Perhaps you haven't heard about us yet, but we meet every Sunday at ten A. M. in Mr. Thaxton's class room. There are forty of us, and none of us even like to miss a class.

We are sure you would like to know what we are doing in this class, and just what this class is. One time perhaps you heard about our hikes. We had lots of fun then, but hikes are not the only thing—However, it was on the hike that we elected our officers.

Ola Mae Price, was chosen President, Mervin Singletary, Vice Pres. Evelyn Haytt, Secretary, and Gertrude Uren as Treasurer. This committee met and elected "Scotchers" which are members chosen to keep up our attendance.

Mr. Thaxton is ready every Sunday morning with a most interesting lecture.

We began this course by studying the Books of the Bible and the periods of Bible History. We are now making a survey of the Old Testament. This survey begins with the creation of man and the story of Abraham; later the history of Israel and their wanderings, the prophets and the kingdoms.

During the next two months we hope to complete this course and receive a King's Teachers Diploma. This course will be offered again by Mr. Thaxton next semester and we hope that all of you that have not had this course will take this great opportunity. We can assure you that it is most interesting and worth while.

CHRISTMAS TREE WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Wednesday immediately after supper, Christmas carols will be sung around the tree in front of Terrell Hall. This is an annual custom at G. S. C. and is sponsored by the Y.

The Y choir will form the inner circle and will lead the carols. The next circle will be formed by the cabinet and the four classes will form circles around them.

DR. GEO. H. WEBBER TO ATTEND CONFERENCES

Will Take Important Part in Three Conferences

Dr. Geo. Harris Webber, of the department of education, will be a delegate to three national groups holding meetings in Cleveland, Ohio during the holidays. Dr. Webber will attend the conference of Phi Gamma Mu—the National Social Science Honor Society, and as a national officer will take an important part in the deliberations of this body. Dr. Webber who is a fellow in the American Association for the Advancement of Science will attend the sectional meetings of this organization in psychology and education. The American Association of University Professors meets in Cleveland at the same time and Dr. Webber will also represent the local chapter in this organization.

DEMONSTRATIONS GIVEN IN H. S. DEPARTMENT

The presence of Miss Beatrice Brown, graduate of Commerce, and Winthrop, former teacher of Elementary Home Economics, and now in charge of the Educational Department of the Singer Sewing Machine Company for this Division of the Southern States, with headquarters in Atlanta, was of much interest and value to the Home Economic students. She demonstrated the varied uses of the sewing machine attachments for economy and beauty of the finished product.

Miss Brown will return in the latter part of March to hold classes and conferences for the purpose of teaching these uses to the students. She will furnish materials for each interested student to make illustrated books along this line. The students are looking forward to this week's visit and are highly appreciative of Dr. Beeson's allowing this privilege.

PRINCESS DER LING AT G. S. C. W.

Chinese Princess Gives Interesting Lecture Tuesday Night

As one of the most interesting numbers that has been offered on the Lyceum course, Her Imperial Highness Princess Der Ling, of Tientsin, China, delivered a lecture December 9th on her life at the Manchu Court. This talk dealt with the intimate facts concerning her experiences as the favorite lady-in-waiting to the late Empress Dowager of China.

Her life is most interesting. She was born in Tientsin, China and was the daughter of a Manchu of the first rank. Her early education was received from the hands of a Chinese tutor, who went with the family from country to country. Her father was minister to Germany, Italy, France, and Spain as well as having made several diplomatic trips to America. Having lived in these countries offered the Princess a broad and unusual education. In France she attended for four years the Sacred Heart Convent and also studied under Sarah Bernhardt and Isadora Duncan.

When Derling was sixteen, her family was called back to China and the two daughters became ladies-in-waiting at the Manchu Court. Later he met an American in the employ of the American Diplomatic Staff in China and with the consent of the Empress Dowager married him. Princess Derling has written three books and her short stories appear in numerous leading national periodicals. In the December issue of Good Housekeeping there is one of her delightful stories of Chinese court life.

Princess Derling appeared on the stage in the costume that she wore at the Manchu Court. The dress was 27 years old and the hat is the only hat she will ever have. Chinese girls, as you know, have only one hat. She wore the characteristic Chinese shoe and remarked that she could dance perfectly in them.

In her excellent English along with a delightful accent she talked for one hour and a half and because of her enthusiasm, charming personality and quaint eastern air held the audience perfectly throughout the entire period.

FASHION SHOW GIVEN BEFORE PICTURE SATURDAY

The students of the H. A. department gave a fashion show before the picture Saturday night. The girls acted as models and wore dresses that they have made in the different H. A. courses.

Dresses for all occasions were shown, as well as lovely gifts and novelties which were also made by the girls.

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year

C. S. ? !

Christmas! How much feeling can be expressed in that one word. But how differently from former days is the meaning to us now. Once when Christmas was mentioned we thought of snow—white snow on roofs and ground and in the branches of trees. We thought of stars cold and brilliant in a Christmas sky; we thought of pine trees all decorated with silver and with colored lights and fragile crimson balls, of Christmas gifts tied up in red and green paper and gold ribbon. "Christmas" brought to our minds holly wreaths and candle light and plum puddings.

But now, how changed everything has become! We don't think of bells that chime, when we think of Christmas, but of a loud shrieking whistle and the noise of brakes and steam from a big black engine. We don't think of Christmas boxes, we think of black hat boxes and brown suit boxes that get mixed up at the station; and we don't think of puddings and holly. We think of sandwiches which are taken for lunch and eaten before the train pulls out. We don't think of snow or any of the things that used to make up the Yule Tide for us; we think of trains—just dirty black trains! But do we still get a thrill out of Christmas. Do we? Oh, what a thrill!—And, Girls, IT WON'T BE LONG NOW!

BIBLE STUDY CLASS HAS PARTY

Miss Willie O'Kelley's Bible Study class enjoyed a Christmas party in Ennis Basement, Friday evening, from 7 to 8 o'clock. Instead of the customary refreshments, or Christmas tree, which usually play so large a part in any campus celebration, the class contributed fruit and money toward helping make some other person's Christmas happier. The fruit was saved by the girls from that given them in the dining-rooms, as they wished their gifts to represent a real sacrifice. The fruit and money were placed on a table in the center of the room, and plans were made to carry it to a family in town Sun-

ADVICE ON TRAFFIC REGULATIONS

Now that Christmas holidays are nearly with us, The Carolinian gives the following advice to students who are yearning to get home and air the family bus. So we pass it on hoping it will do G. S. C. girls some good.

Always drive fast out of an alley. You might hit a policeman—there's no telling.

Don't use your horn. It might frighten the dog off the fender.

Demand over half the road. What business has the other fellow there, anyway?

Don't look back when you back up. There can't be anything behind you.

Be sure you beat the fire trucks to the fire so you will be in the firemen's way when they get there.

Don't stop for traffic signals. They are just Christmas ornaments.

Don't slow down at corners. Show the people how you can go around on two wheels.

Be sure you park your car near a fire-plug. The firemen will have plenty of time to move it for you.

If you neglect to put gas in your car and it stalls in the street, a policeman will push it to a service station for you. That's what he gets paid for.

If you have a wreck, call a policeman and make him believe it was the other fellow's fault.

If you beat the train across the crossing you can tell the engineer. But if you don't beat it the undertaker can tell him.

Drive as fast as you can on wet pavement. Your four-wheel brakes never fail you.

Don't stop at railroad crossings. The engineer will look out for you. He has lots of tracks to run on and you have but one.

Don't stop for street-cars. The judge won't fine you but $25.00.

HOW TO APPEAR FOR EXAMINATIONS

1—Inform the prof beforehand how easy you think his exam will be.

2—Cut the last class before exam.

3—Do not do any last night studying as it will clog up your brain.

4—Don't memorize any formulas; as it much more interesting to develop them if necessary. Besides there is always the chance that you will stumble on one brand new one which will cause the instructor to regard you in a different light.

5—Go to a show the night before; it helps lift the load of care off your mind.

6—Try to schedule three exams in one day so as to get through 7—When you turn your paper in say: "Huh! That was a cinch." The prof will then realize how well you know the subject and will be tempted to overlook small mistakes.

A student failed in all five subjects he took. He telegraphed to a brother.

Failed in five. Prepare papa. The brother telegraphed back: Papa prepared; prepare yourself.

Plunkett: "You can never tell about these women."

Couch: "And if you can, you'd better not."

Stokes: "When did you first know you loved me?"

Mildred: "When I began to get mad when people said you were barinless and ugly."

SPANISH CLUB MEETS

The regular meeting of El Circulo Espanol was held at 5:30 Friday afternoon, December 11, 1930 in the Assembly Hall, Norma Dunaway presiding.

This being the Christmas meeting, a beautiful program of Chrsismas songs, poems, and stories was presented in the Spanish language. As this was the open meeting of the Spanish Club was held Wednesday, December 10, in Dr. Webber's classroom.

The meeting was called to order and the minutes read. Business matters of the club were discussed, after which Dr. Webber gave a very interesting and inspiring talk on America's Contribution to Mental Hygiene.

The idea of Our Master who said, "It is more blessed to give than to receive" was carried out, and in response to the roll call, each member offered a little gift to make some child happy. A nice basket of toys was received; this was presented to the Salvation Army for poor children of the town on Christmas Eve.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Elizabeth Smith. The president read a number of verses from the second chapter of Saint Luke, after which the Lord's Prayer was said. In addition to a number of Christmas carols, with Mary Snow Johnson at the piano, the following program was given:

La Noche de Navidad—Margaret Durden; El Nino Ha Nacido, Beatrice Coleman; Nochebuena, Lillian Sims; El Rey de los Cielos; Huhphries set up the will as filed, in superior court here today, after objections by three relatives had been withdrawn.

Atlanta, Dec. 8.—The residuary estate of the late Charles D. Moore, who moved to Atlanta after his retirement from the merchantile business in Buena Vista, Ga., will go to educate poor and worthy girls of Talbot and Taylor counties, at the Georgia State College for Women.

LIBRARY NEWS

Other interesting non-fiction includes The Life of Disraeli by Maurice Maeterlinck, The Raven by James, The World in 2030 by Birkenhead and is both fiction and non-fiction.

Among the new fiction books are These books and any others in to be found Pulitzer prize books the library may be checked out on such as Scarlet Sister Mary, by Julian Byrd's Little America.

Oliver LaFarge. Those who remember Martha Ostenso's Wild Geese will welcome her more recent books Young May Moon and Waters Under the Earth.

A new type of novel by Lyn Ward is called God's Man. This is unique in that it is a novel in woodcuts with the story formed by the reader's own imagination. Books for those who enjoy mystery stories there are titles by Connally's, Green Pastures, Drinkwater's, Bird in Hand, Sheriff's, Berkeley Square and Rice's Street Scene.

Poetry is excellently represented in Robinson's The Glory of the Nightingales, Millay's Buck in the Snow, Aiken's Collected Poems, Mazefield's Wanderer of Liverpool and Ney's Forty Singing Seamen. You will find Marc Sullivan's Our Times, most readable as it portrays the history of the American people in popular form, being composed of extracts from newspapers.

Mother and Dad miss you while you are away at school.

They would like a photo of your fair contenance for Christmas.

Why not give them one to park on the living room mantel piece?

Up And by Train.

September 9, 1930—Up betimes. Everyone extra-ordinarily kind and helpful. Mighty earnest to go, though a little sad as I donned my brown and white. So anon, I went alone to the station, and people did mightily look upon me—being my first appearance in my uniform. I did meet at the station other specimens of my type—journeying with them to Milledgeville. That journey I enjoyed little, if any—being a "freshie," timid, and scared to death.

Freshmen—This Way!

September 10, 1930—Scared, excited beyond words, shy and above all things, homesick, we slept not over-much last evening. This morning we did up by dawn, and were down to breakfast before the whistle did stop its sounding. Entering the dining hall, we looked in vain for empty places at the tables. In despair, we gazed around desperately. Suddenly we saw a table—occupied by not a single girl. We did congratulate ourselves in our fortune and sat down. While we did pour the water, the table was assailed by matrons. Verily, a good number. What had we done wrong, now? It seemed that we had, by mistake of course, taken possession of the wrong table—the matrons' table. Up mighty quick, and embarrass'd beyond words, or even actions, we again did begin our search for a seat—a place to sit down—anywhere, to get away from that impersonal stare of so many, many girls, that did seem to brand us forever. We were starving, but ate no breakfast—vowing ourselves not hungry, rather than ask for food.

Afterwards, mightily out of humor, we did back to our place of refuge—our beloved room. Then to Park's Hall to register: so full as I never saw it; I was forced to stand two hours—near the door, 'till I grew weary, and went away for want of room. Thence to the side of a Senior. I did inquire the whereabouts of Room 10, Chappell Hall. I was told third floor. So over to that building in question I went up two flights of stairs, and into—the attic. It made me, I confess, feel quite peculiar. A feeling I dare not try to explain. I did explore no more—but did go back to my room.

Tonight, hearing that there would be a picture at the auditorium, we did go thither, and by very great fortune, did find three or four girls that we knew. There we saw "Swing High," and enjoyed it might fine. It was ten o'clock; back to the dormitory, sleepy and happier and more at ease than we had been since our arrival. And so to bed.

DR. WEBBER'S BIBLE STUDY CLASS ENJOYS TEA

The members of Dr. Webber's Bible Study class enjoyed a Christmas tea Saturday evening from 5:30 to 6:30 o'clock in the college tea room.

Margaret Cunningham and Marjorie Neal sang a duet.

Virginia Lanier gave a delightful Christmas reading.

Music for the evening was furnished by Virginia Kenan, guitar; and Mildred Brown, ukelele.
